Overall Judgement

In Progress

- The school has succeeded in making partial improvements to its performance and addressed some recommendations provided in the latest review. This has contributed to promoting the effectiveness of teaching practices to varying degrees in the majority of core subject lessons, though to a lesser extent in English lessons. Furthermore, it has led to sufficient improvement in the quality of procedures related to the recommendation on developing students' personal characteristics.
- The school has set its goals according to development priorities and rebuilt its school plans based on those priorities, such as focusing on improving students' achievement standards and teachers' professional development. This has contributed to achieving partial improvements in some aspects of work, particularly in the effectiveness of learning procedures delivered in the majority of Grade 9 lessons.
- The school should continue its efforts to raise students' standards in core subjects across lessons, written work, and school programmes, especially in English, and focus on further developing the effectiveness of teaching practices in lessons.
- The school must continue to address the recommendations in order to reach the desired level of improvement, and it will be scheduled for a regular review in the next review visit.
